Cookie Notice

What Are Cookies

As is common practice with almost all professional websites, this site uses cookies, which are tiny files that are downloaded to your computer, to enable you to use our website(s). This document describes what information they gather and why we need to store these cookies.

The Cookies We Set

We only used essential/required cookies that enable our website(s) to function properly. We do not collect any identifiable personal data via cookies.

If you create an account with us then we will use cookies for the management of the signup process and general administration. These cookies will usually be deleted when you log out however in some cases they may remain afterwards to remember your site preferences when logged out.

We use cookies when you are logged in so that we can remember this fact. This prevents you from having to log in every single time you visit a new page. These cookies are typically removed or cleared when you log out to ensure that you can only access restricted features and areas when logged in.

Our site offers newsletter or email subscription services and cookies may be used to remember if you are already registered and whether to show certain notifications which might only be valid to subscribed/unsubscribed users.

When you submit data through a form such as those found on the contact pages or comment forms cookies may be set to remember your user details for future correspondence.
